Letter from Madame President

Dear Members and Friends,

As 2023 draws to a close and my term as President is in its last quarter, I am continually impressed by the talent and dedication of Advocates Society Members. Members are engaged as leaders in the legal community, the local Chicagoland community, and the worldwide community. Members work to uphold standards of the legal profession, fight injustice, and uphold the rule of law. Whether you joined for the quality programming, good friends, great food and beverage, or common heritage, you leave our events and meetings having learned insight about something or someone.

I pray for justice and peace at home, as well as, in and near our heritage homelands. Europe and the Holy Land are engulfed in war began by unexpected, unwarranted attacks. "Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere" is as true as it ever was (Martin Luther King, 1963). I have hope that righteousness, truth, and love will prevail. The days are getting shorter now, but soon the days will start getting longer. Light will conquer darkness. Love will conquer evil.

Have a safe, happy, and healthy holiday season for your families! Happy New Year! Happy Chanukah! Merry Christmas!

Ann L. Melichar
2023-2024 President, Advocates Society

CLE: Breaking the Cycle: Managing Imposter Syndrome & Perfectionism

On November 16th and at the Advocates Society General Meeting, Tony Pacione, the Deputy Director of the Lawyer's Assistance Program (LAP) presented a 1-hour CLE presentation called "Breaking the Cycle: Managing Imposter Syndrome and Perfectionism." This CLE was a joint CLE with the Bohemian Lawyers Association and took place at the Copernicus Center.

Impostor syndrome (IS) refers to an internal experience of believing that you are not as competent as others perceive you to be and it has links to maladaptive perfectionism and fear of failure. It can affect anyone no matter their social status, work background, skill level, or degree of expertise.

Participants learned:

- Why lawyers, particularly, early career, women and minorities are a vulnerable population.
- The common mental health issues associated with Imposter Syndrome and Maladaptive Perfectionism.
- The signs and characteristics associated with Imposter Syndrome and Maladaptive Perfectionism.
- What you can do to minimize these feelings as you navigate the practice of law and your career as an attorney.

PRESENTER, TONY PACIONE
DEPUTY DIRECTOR OF THE LAWYER'S
ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

Special thanks to Judge Chmiel and Mark Dobrzycki for the photography.

The Advocates' Scholarship Fundraiser & Silent Auction

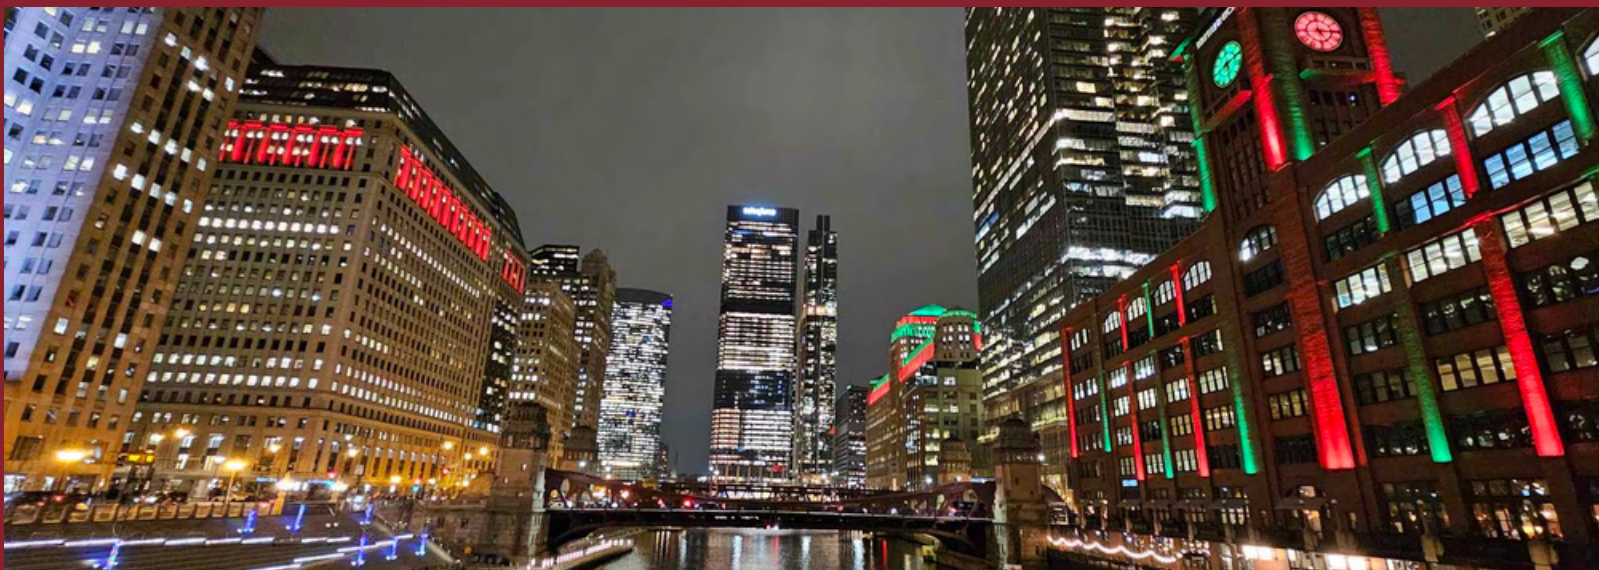

On November 30, 2023, the Advocates Society held its annual Scholarship Fundraiser and Silent Auction. The evening was a resounding success and all attendees enjoyed the special family-style dinner and camaraderie. Some of the 40 donated and sold items included: a Suite at the Ritz Carlton Chicago, dinner gift certificates, artwork, theatre tickets, Bourbon, artisan Vodka, wine, hockey, baseball, basketball and football tickets, and a 33.7 pound holiday sausage and bread gift basket.

Scholarships were also awarded at the event to Tom Bacharz, David Blondin, Alexis Gonzalez, Pamela Kobeszko, Jacob Rotolo and Elaine Montgomery. The funds raised will benefit the Polish American Advocates Society Scholarship Fund, which provides scholarships to entering or current law school students who are of Polish descent.

Finally, a special thanks to Eryk J. Wachnik, Advocates' 2nd Vice President, for planning such a successful and fun event!

Advocate SPOTLIGHT: Attorney Dominika Poplawska-Purcha

We are also featuring Dominika Poplawska-Purcha who is bilingual Polish-speaking attorney, founding attorney of Poplawska Purcha and Associates LLC, working in the areas of probate, guardianship, and family law. She has been inspired to help people navigate the difficult process of divorce and separation through her motivational speaking endeavors including the series of interactive panel discussions that she co-hosts beginning with: Heal and Rebuild: Introduction to Freedom. Here is what Attorney Poplawska-Purcha shared with us.

Why are you a member of the Advocates Society?

For most of my law school career, I was balancing working full-time, and attending night classes and online classes while being a full-time mother, wife and volunteering within the community. This balancing lifestyle wasn't always easy, in fact it was never easy. That is when I became involved with the Advocates Society as a student member, two-time scholarship recipient, and volunteer. Being a part of the Advocates Society helped me keep grounded as my branches weaved and balanced through all of my various obligations, duties, and voluntary involvement. I instantly felt welcomed, and the sense of the Advocate Society's strong community bond cannot be missed from a mile away.

Give us an example of how being a member of the Advocates Society empowered you as an attorney.

A friend once asked me: How do you MAKE time? My answer was simpler than she expected it to be: building blocks of time. Time is like a popular video game from the 1980's that we are all familiar with, where various shaped blocks fall from the top of the screen and the goal is to spin them and place them to form a complete row as they fall. It is very applicable in the very chaotic and busy life of attorneys. You can either take it slow and steady and carefully line up the blocks of time to fit as best as you can, or you can embrace the chaos and let the blocks fall as they may. However, I guarantee that the slow and steady careful organization of time blocks will lead to more success and less stress in the long run. Keep in mind that most of the time the blocks fall at the high speed level, and don't always line up quite as we want them to, that when we accept the situation that we have no control over and use that as a learning opportunity to know how to better align the next row of blocks. Being an active member on various committees of the Advocates Society helps me get better at aligning my time blocks while staying involved with our community.

What are you most looking forward to in the coming year, personally and professionally?

About a year ago, I began motivational speaking. I look forward to continuing to host and be a panelist at these empowering events. I also look forward to growing my book of business, and continue gaining experience in probate, guardianships, and family law. I also look forward to gaining more litigation experience this year, with my first big trial set for February.

Share any other information about yourself that you think our readers would enjoy.

My favorite pastime is traveling and exploring new places. Whenever I visit a new place, I always bring back a mug and add it to my collection. I would love to be able to do a backpacking trip through Asia one day: Thailand, China, Japan, and tons of other amazing places are on my bucket list.

“Being a part of the Advocates Society helped me keep grounded as my branches weaved and balanced through all of my various obligations, duties, and voluntary involvement.”

“When I was in college I used to ride my motorcycle everywhere. I took a break from riding when I started my family. This past summer I decided to get back on the horse, and loved every minute of that ride!”

Mishap While Traveling Abroad and Onboard? A Legal Guide to Abide By

Written by Steven Zdanowicz

Ready for that perfect trip down to the Caribbean to avoid the arrival of old man winter? Or a long holiday in Europe to see all the wonders that the Romans left behind? Count me in! But if there's one thing that working in aviation law has taught me, it's that things can go wrong. But what should you know as an international traveler when things go wrong either onboard an aircraft, at the airport, or somewhere in between?

Here are some good places to start:

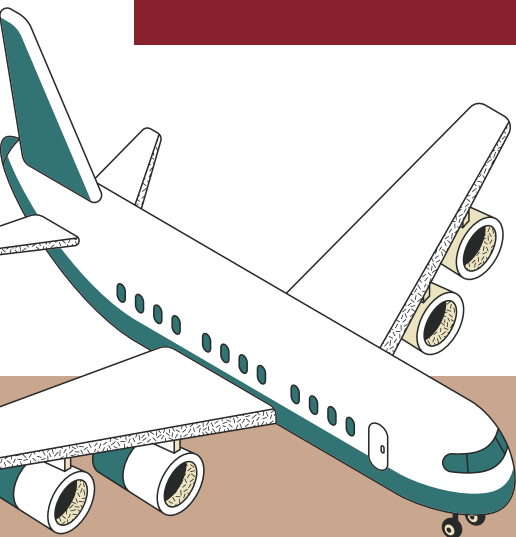

Contract of Carriage

Ever look on the back of a physical ticket with all the small print? Take a look next time you fly. Have an E-ticket? Check your carrier's app or website. The agreement between the passenger and carrier is called the Contract of Carriage. The Contract of Carriage contains all the rights, responsibilities, and terms for your trip between your departure point and the final destination.

Convention for the Unification of Certain Rules for International Carriage by Air, also known as the "Montreal Convention"

This international treaty outlines the liability a carrier has to its passengers – assuming the countries on your booking are signatories – when they are injured or perish aboard international flights and there is damage to or loss of luggage and cargo. This treaty also applies to domestic legs booked on the same itinerary. The Montreal Convention has a strict liability regime for the air carrier. The Montreal Convention also contains strict limits on damages depending on the loss suffered. As a general rule, a Montreal Convention-based lawsuit has a two-year statute of limitations. However, for lost baggage claims, written notice to the air carrier must be made within 21 days. For damaged baggage, a claim must be made within 7 days. Carrying something personal or of increased monetary value? Carry it on!

European Regulation 261/2004

While the Montreal Convention is the first place to look while traveling abroad, the European Union provides additional protections for passengers, regardless of nationality, traveling to and from the European Union. This regulation is more commonly known as EU 261. EU 261 provides passengers fixed damages when their flights are delayed or cancelled. The compensation owed to the passenger is tiered. In essence, the longer the delay, the greater the compensation. For cancellations, hotel and meal reimbursements are also mandated. However, air carriers do not automatically provide damages. Passengers must file a claim with the air carrier or the European Union. The statute of limitations for EU 261 claims is dependent upon the Member State.

The importance of documentation

While the Montreal Convention and EU 261 provide a legal framework for passengers and air carriers alike, passengers traveling abroad should always document their mishap. Make sure to take photos, obtain a statement, and file a report with the air carrier and relevant authorities as soon as possible. While it can be a letdown to shuffle paper for a few hours on what is a supposed to be an idyllic holiday, taking the time to document and report a mishap is time well spent. It will save you hours of headache later.
